

Today, i am writing my diary a bit early because of the time that i had due to my tasks that are completed and postponed to tomorrow. I woke up at a normal time in my country and I walked for 30 minutes. I studied my daily quota of news and I proceeded to my breakfast. After my tiffin, I spoke to the bsnl office guy and he said to me that his company will not give a refund incase of cancellation. I realised that I have to keep his connection because if I don't keep this I am going to lose my money and I asked him to repair my connection.

While i was studying java language, at around 11:40 pm the office people came and repaired my internet connection. Watching tv and speaking with my parents, I had chicken biriyani as well as pickled rice.

I am not going to speak about my midafternoon because of the things that I have done.

In the evening, I studied a few pages of Jawaharlal Nehru's book while speaking with my brother on the political system. I decided to sleep on my terrace and I had shifted my cot to the terrace. Now , I am going to have my dinner and probably gonna sleep while browsing the internet..
