

I woke up to the sound of the alarm and proceeded to the bathroom schedule. I attended the class and everyone in my group started putting the message that they cannot come to the class due to various issues. I joined the class and the professor gave the 3 important things to do for the day. Firstly, he continued on the lab test 1 demo whoever is interested in giving that. Secondly, he gave the project and explained how to do that. Finally, he gave one marked assignment for the day. I didn't have any interest in the class from the start because everyone is leaving the class. I started reading newspapers and books. While I was reading a book, I called to few security companies about the hiring and they told me that they don't have any hiring going on at this moment. I felt literally bad for this. in the afternoon, before my lunch, I and Aravind went to the Costco business store and came empty-handed because it doesn't have the items which we are thinking of buying. While coming to the room, we went to the no-frill store and bought a few grocery items. at around 2 pm, we ate lunch and after that, I completely spent the next 1 hour and 30 minutes chatting with the fido customer service regarding the bill. They told me it was a service fee and they will credit it back to my account after 2-3 billing days. I quit the chat, had a bath, and went outside to buy the groceries. I spent the next one hour buying the groceries from the different stores. after a while, I came back to the room, helped with the preparation for dinner, and spent the time doing the assignments. Right now, I submitted the assignment and writing this diary. Once I am done with this, I will eat, brush, apply to the security license companies, and help my friends with their assignments.
