

Today, I woke up at 7 am on my terrace. When I woke up, nobody was there and I scanned the terrace as well as the sun rising above me. It was hot and beautiful. I came back to my bedroom and waited for 20 minutes to get into the bathroom because my father was already in the bathroom and he was bathing. Once I did my bathroom rituals, I drank warm water which I prepared and went for a 30 minutes walk while reading the newspaper on my mobile phone. After that, I spent the time reading the remaining news, had a tiffin in front of my tv, did read the murder on the orient express upto 12 pm. Then I proceed to listen to podcasts. While listening to the podcasts, I received the books which I ordered and I was happy because it is the first time I ordered something which I don't have regrets for the rest of my life. The books are the discovery of india, elon musk, atomic habits, and 101 essays that will change what you think. In the afternoon, I had chicken with mango chutney and spent the rest of the afternoon studying swift language. I did my leg exercise in the evening. After my bath at 5 :30 pm , I spent one hour reading swift language and came to my hall from my bedroom and watched the IPL match between RCB VS MI. in the time between 8-9 pm, I had dinner, cleaned my teeth, washed my face, filled my bottle with water.