

When I woke up, the sun was not rising and It was beautiful to look at the sky. I came down after arranging my bed on my terrace and proceeded to the washroom. After I completed the cleaning, I studied the BBC newspaper on my laptop while having warm water. Once I completed the BBC, I started my daily quota of walking and again I read the indian express and the NDTV newspapers. While I was reading the newspaper, I got a pop up on my mobile which said that you took a couple of photos on this day and you might want to take a look at it. I opened the pop up and I took the photos of my mom on that day. After a couple of minutes, I realised it was on my mom's birthday that I took this photo and today is my mother's birthday. I convey my wishes to my mom. I had my breakfast and studied the discovery of india book upto twenty past twelve. I ate my lunch along with my mother and proceeded to study the android app development tutorial. In the evening, I did my leg exercises and went to take a bath. After my bath, I studied for 30 minutes and went to the temple. Today was our day to distribute chickpeas and jaggery water for people after praying to Sri rama. We went and prayed and took the blessings of Sri rama and distributed the chickpeas and jaggery water.sunil is the one who distributed all the chickpeas and I was barely observing everyone who came for the prasadam. I think I spent about 30 minutes in and outside the temple and I came back home. I asked my mother to prepare dinner and she arranged it within half an hour. I ate and I will have to do the remaining things before going to sleep. Probably gonna watch the webseries after all the work. Before I go, I wanted to tell you something which I did in the mid afternoon. I had a chat with rutcia and she told me she got the ppr and she said to me that I am going to get it in the next or last week of april.
