

I slept outside my house because of the rain and I slept at around 12 pm. I woke up early in the morning and slept at sampathamma house for another two hours. I decided to study only SQL language because of the midterm exam. I read the atomic habits book for about 10 minutes after my bathroom rituals. After that, I had a bath and breakfast and went to study SQL. overall, in the morning, it was a good session because I learned and observed so many things on the subject. In the afternoon, I ate my lunch and took a break for about 90 minutes and watched and read the SQL joins concept. In the evening, I wrote my first midterm exam and completed it within two hours and here I am writing this diary afterwards. I will go and have my dinner and will speak to a few people.