

It was not a good day to write in my diary. I woke up pretty late after all this is a weekend. No one was there because of their jobs as well as classes. I woke up, did something regrettable, and went to the saloon to do my haircut. It was a short haircut that I did for myself. I came back home, did my bath, washed the chores, and waited for Arvind to come home due to lunch. We ate lunch and spent the afternoon watching Netflix while he was doing a nap. The whole day was full of Netflix even when we were eating dinner. i slept after that.