

I woke up at 5 am to go to my shift at Tim Hortons. I reached the office at 6:45 am and started working there from 7 am to 3 pm. At the time, I found a girl who is looking bad and I can possibly say worst, the amusing that I found in that girl is commanding the room. she has so much command towards others and she judges the people. I came home, made lunch, ate lunch and then slept. I woke up at 11 pm when Laxman anna called me. I told him that you would have stayed a lit bit longer and I asked some general questions regarding the subjects and all. I called Aravind to enquire where he was. He said he is on his way home. Right now, I am writing this one. once I am done with this, I will eat and am still thinking what to do
