

I woke up before my class and spent the time before class getting ready. I did everything and attended the class online. I submitted the two assignments that he gave me for today and exited the class at quarter-past twelve. After that, I started reading the book and later on, I had lunch with my roommates. In the afternoon, I and my brother went to the pet store to return the fish which he bought from them. It was active but it's dull and its fins are leaving the body. I returned and bought some other fish along with another instrument which I don't know anything about. We came back and I read the remaining part of the daily quota book. In the evening, I made bread omelette, applied to the RBC bank, and bathed. After that, I studied the swift language while my brother was bathing after he placed the chicken biriyani order. We got chicken biriyani for $9 because he got the promotion of $30 from the referral. we received the order, ate the biriyani and started writing the diary. Once I complete this, I will do my night chores, and watch some videos before I go to sleep. While I was browsing my laptop, I went to the tpl website to renew the books and I got to know that I am fined $1 because of the hold I didn't pick up from the store. I renewed the books and thinking of paying the fine once I went over there.
