

When I was sleeping at night, I woke up suddenly because I was getting a piss . although, I didn't actually open my eyes. I was thinking of waking up and going to piss and come back to sleep. I thought in my sleep it would be around 5:30 am but it turns out to be 6:30 am . The sky was bright with the emerging sun and the mighty sun was directly facing me . I came back to my house from my terrace and did my daily rituals. Once I had completed, I proceeded to read the newspaper reading, sipped the hot water. I went for a walk and had my breakfast and had a wonderful discussion with my father about politics. I went to the book reading and studied the daily quota upto the afternoon. In the afternoon, I had chicken fry with rice and studied swift language upto 4:30 pm. Then , I had my leg exercise. Before I went to the bathroom, we had a power cut and I didn't expect the power to be off for a couple of hours. It went off for a lot longer than I expected. There are a couple of things I did when the power was gone. Those are watching house of cards web series, speaking to praveen's brother about sds and non-sds category visas, and a conversation with my brother about international politics. We got power and I went for a bath. Came after the beautiful bath, spent time watching IPL and had dinner..
