

I woke up at 5:30 am to get ready for my college. I started my day by with speaking Aravind while brushing my teeth. I went to college at 7:40 am and waited outside for my Telugu friends. by the time, we reached the class, the class was full and we had to sit on the first bench.the professor was like a genuine and I felt that he has the subject as well as humour.he made so much comedy while we were in the brekas.during the breaks ,we went out and bought some coffee for us.after the class,we went to fair view mall and spent a lot of time over there doing nothing at all.I went along with my friends to their house and I ate my luch and spent the rest of the afternoon browsing my mobile and watching a couple of videos on TV.I came home at 9:00 pm and I ate my dinner and now writing this.once I am done with this, I will brush my teeth, research the trello thing on youtube.one thing that happened today in the class was our professor told us to set a group of only 4 people.right now, I am left with a couple of people who dont know anything at all.i am feeling scared at this point of time.
