

I just worked on one thing from the morning to the night before my dinner. That is my assignment. When I woke up, I did my daily chores and I started working on the assignment. Initially, I watched so many videos and worked on the project and I didn't get anything from that. I was bored of that and spent the afternoon watching TV, watching something on my phone, and web series. At around 3 pm, I spent again some time on the project. After the bath at a quarter past five, I had a chat with donia regarding the project and she sent me the docs regarding that. I worked on the project and submitted the doc and had dinner afterwards. When I completed the assignment, my mind was free and able to focus on something other than my project. Right now, I had my dinner, had my brushing, and made my bed to sleep. After this, I will watch some web series or youtube videos and think of going to sleep when it hits me.
