

I woke up pretty fast due to my constipation. Once I cleared my stomach, I went again to my terrace to sleep. Although, I didn't actually sleep. After some time, I came home and did the daily rituals such as walking, and reading. When I completed my breakfast, I spent the remaining morning working and learning with my new Macbook and old Dell laptops. In the afternoon, after completing my lunch, I spent my time reading Elon musk's book and ugly love book. At around half-past four, my internet got broken and not working. I waited for some time to fix the issue from the Bsnl office. But they are working and it's time for me to attend my Lambton college first-day meetings. However, I did recharge and attended my classes on my mobile. When I was at the end of my second class, that time my wifi got fixed and working fine. Today, my passport went to the VFS office and they received and sent the mail regarding my passport. right now, I have to go and do my brush and get to sleep.
