

I woke up as usual as yesterday and again I did the same process such as brushing, cleaning and checking my mails. After having a bit of warm water, I studied BBC news as well as Indian express news. I went to the bsnl office at around 10:40 pm after i completed my breakfast. There I encountered a problem with the staff because he was on leave and I have to go tomorrow to get a new router. I started studying the discovery of India in the morning after I came home from the bsnl office.

In the afternoon, I had lunch and watched Emily in Paris, which I had downloaded in the morning. In the afternoon, I again started reading the book which I had left in the morning. I don't know what happened to me because I decided to plant small trees. I went to my farm and took some clay. Then I proceeded into the next stage which is planting and it took some time and I actually did that without anyone's help.

I watched some youtube videos(oxford union debates, android app development) after having my bath in the evening. I had lunch while watching tv and that's it for today...
