

The whole day was nothing but waiting for mobile and wifi connection. When I woke up, I didn't find any signals from both wifi and mobile and I asked my brother about that. In the end, we found out that the whole of Canada is down on the signals because of fido, and rogers. we just waited for the signals from morning to evening. In the evening, we went down and bought some snacks in the Srilanka store and went to the pet store to see some dogs. The public wifi is working and I texted my parents about the condition I am facing. I spoke to my parents on my friend's phone when I came home. After speaking about politics with Aravind and reading the news, I ate my dinner and went to sleep.
