

Before I proceed to write this daily diary, I want to say today is my birthday. Although I celebrated my birthday every year, for the past two years, I haven't celebrated my birthday. I am not liking the celebration of birthdays. I woke up in the morning and had a bath and went to the temple along with my family members. When I went to the temple, it was kind of new, everything I noticed was changed. Then, I realized that I came to the temple a long way back that I don't remember. We did some pooja ceremony inside. In the meantime, my wife got fixed. I spent the morning doing nothing but watching Tv. in the afternoon, my brother brought Tandoori Chicken. I ate that Chicken with biriyani. To be honest, I didn't like both. I attended the class in the evening and he gave me some exercises to do and gave the deadline of Monday to submit. I did some progress on the storyboard. right now, I am writing this diary and once I complete this, I will go and do my brush, and probably watch some web series.