

I woke up at half-past eight and got ready within half an hour. At exactly quarter nine, I started my journey to the allied security to submit my documents for the security guard position. I went there and no one seemed to be there in the office and I called the person who offered me the job. He came outside and we spoke and I submit the documents. I came home and spent my time cleaning the hall, helping Aravind's bed from the bedroom to the hall, reading the newspaper, and reading the gone girl book. Dheeraj came with the chicken biriyani and we ate that. I spent my afternoon talking about politics, applying for a background check, and watching videos o youtube. In the evening, I had my bath and watched the HTML videos. At 10 pm, I started thinking about dinner and at last, at 11 pm, I started making dinner and ate it after I cooked the food. Right now, I had my dinner and passing some time to do my night schedule such as brushing, watching videos on youtube or some other platform, and night bathroom schedule.