

I woke up as usual on my terrace and did my daily chores. In the morning, I read the newspaper as well as an ugly love book. While I was reading, my father asked me to come and have lunch at Mahesh's father's home. The reason was pretty simple it's because due to gangamma festival. in the afternoon, I studied the SQL tutorial and attended the class in the evening. After the completion of the class, my father asked me to come to the religious festival which is happening in my town, I went along with my parents and had a wonderful insight of the goddess.