

I didn't sleep properly yesterday because of the nap that I took in the afternoon. Due to that, I didn't sleep properly. I woke up at 6 am and I got ready within an hour and started my journey to my job. I reached the coffee shop 20 minutes before the start of my shift. I started my shift exactly at 8 am and worked up to 1 pm. In the meantime, I cleaned the garbages and worked mostly in the front taking orders and giving their respective orders. I came back home and ate my lunch. I spent the rest of the afternoon wasting time. In the evening, I had a bath and started studying the HTML, doing a few exercises on HTML, and read the book for a couple of minutes before I was interrupted by my roommates. We went to dollarama and a Bangladeshi supermarket to buy the stuff to kill the insects. We came home from outside and ate dinner. Right now, I am writing this diary while watching the movie I don't know. Once I am done with this, I will soak the almonds, brush my teeth, and study book for a bit.