

Today, I woke up as usual and went to my house from my terrace and did my daily chores. It was a pleasant morning and I did the same as yesterday. In the afternoon, after I had lunch, I went to study swift language and I didn't focus on it because the language was discussing apps. I didn't come that far in swift language. We again lost wifi after more than 20 days. I waited for some time and I called the bsnl office guys and he said it will come but it didn't come throughout the day. In the evening, I had my bath, did my leg exercise before my bath, and started reading the discovery of india book for 30 minutes. I had a political debate with my parents while having dinner. There are some things which happened and I also want to tell you. The first one is Sri Rama navami festival and today onwards we will be having chickpeas from temple every day night upto ten days.
