

I woke up, as usual, did my daily ritual, and spent my day shopping. I did shopping online because I was having a new subject today and I knew from previous subject experience that today was going to be an installation class. I did my clothes shopping in the morning and in the afternoon, I bought shampoos and some food items. In the evening, I attended the class and he told the class to do work on UI elements. I did my work on UI but I was unable to understand the constraint concept. I submitted my project with the UI elements but not the simulator concept. At the midnight at 12 pm, I gave up the day and decided to sleep. While I was sleeping, I heard the sounds of my grandmother shouting from outside of my home. She probably had a bad dream in her sleep. One more thing that happened to us was my father brought a few guests who is prominent in finding the bad things that happen to us. My father, my grandmother, and my brother along with the priest went to my farm and found some cards in the underground. Which tells us someone is interested in bringing my family down. This is not my perspective.
