

When I woke up in the morning due to the alarm sound, it was like one of the most horrible days I felt during my bachelor's degree. my eyes were hurting and I cannot wake up on my bed due to the sleep flowing through every part of my body. Later, I woke up because I have class and I have to attend that at any cost of time because of the assignment. I got up and did my chores and attended the class. the network was literally bad. So, because of that, I cannot hear his voice properly. He gave the assignment and we completed and submitted it as a group at 12 pm. Meanwhile, Dheeraj bro started making dosas in the kitchen at around half-past eleven and luckily, I got dosa when I completed my submission. I ate dosa and read the book. When I was about to end the book, Mahesh bro came with mutton biriyani and we shared the biriyani. After my lunch, I did a few practice tests and took a nap. When I woke up, I got a security license number and I booked the test right after my bath and tea preparation. At a quarter past seven, I, Mahesh, and Dheeraj went outside, went to the park, went to the grocery store, bought some items, came back home, prepared dinner, and ate dinner. Right now, I am writing this one. once I complete this, I will watch web series or videos on youtube and within a few minutes, I will go to sleep. Before I end today, I spoke to cibc and activated my e-transfer in the afternoon.
