

I woke up at 10 am to go for my shift at Tim Hortons. I made some lunch and started my way to Tim's. I reached there on time and started my shift initially in the front. Then, my supervisor asked me to go to the drive-thru. I worked in that place for my entire shift. I found out a Telugu person who came on the drive-thru and asked me about the job and all. I spoke to him after coming to my house while making my dinner. Right now, I am writing this one. once I am done with this, i will brush my teeth, do my bathroom schedule, and probably go to sleep.
