

I woke up early, did my daily rituals, prepared breakfast, and sat on my laptop. At 10 am, Dheeraj came and started making chicken biriyani and I helped with that process for him. It went on to a big-time. Meanwhile, we decorated or arranged the rooms. At half-past one, Arvind and I ate our lunch while Dheeraj was waiting for her friend. She came at 3 pm and they both ate their lunch while we were having a conversation. We spoke and started our journey to Walmart to run some errands. Another thing which I did was missing the pillow and we started our journey. So, I went up and the door didn't work for me. Finally, Arvind came and opened the door. We went to Walmart and came back to our room. I bathed, ate, and slept. I got a phone call from Dheeraj to come down to pick up the fan which I bought second-hand from an unknown person. By the way, Dheeraj went and picked the fan while I was communicating with both. I went down and we both got into the car to buy gas. We went to his previous room's gas station because of the price fluctuation. after that, I came back and slept.