

I woke up late, got ready, ate my breakfast, and started my way to college. I reached college at 9 am, and when the professor gave us a break from the class, Rajesh and I sneaked inside. I was bored in class. During the second break, I spoke to the college administration regarding the fee structure. When I was in the class, I paid my rent and cleared all my splits. I came back home when the class was still going on. Before coming home, I went to the library to pick up the book. I ate my lunch when I reached home and took a nap. I woke up at half-past six, bathed, read the book, and started writing this diary. Once I complete this, I will eat my dinner, and then I would study for a while.