

I woke up at 6 am and I realized that I am not bathing in the morning. so, as a result, I woke up at 6:30 am and went to college. in college, I worked on a project. my professor got some strict schedules from the college regarding the students coming to the college. so, he decided to give attendance based on the time we are in the class. I got absent in the first period. In the afternoon, we ordered poutine from the restaurant and got our money back because of the smack. I came home and cleaned the bathroom. I slept in the afternoon after my bath. I woke up and worked on the project for some time before I start my DevOps tutorial. While I was working on the DevOps tutorial, Mahesh anna came after watching the movie. he brought some kottu paratha with him and we both ate the food. Right now, I am writing this diary while watching Tv. I already kept the rice and it is cooking now. once I am done with this, I will work on the project and later, I will study my final project.