

Today, I didn't have much to write. I woke up as usual on my terrace, arranged my bed, came back to the bedroom to place a water bottle and mobile phone on my table, went to the bathroom to do my daily chores. I started reading the news and spent the rest of the morning reading the silent patient book and I completed that book and gave my review on goodreads. Also, in the morning, I went for a walk and had my tiffin. We lost power at around 11 am and it didn't come until 2:30 pm. In the meantime, I had lunch and spent time speaking with my mother, brother, as well as I spoke to my sister's teacher for a provisional admission letter. We got power and I sent an email to my college regarding the purchase of a macbook laptop. Hopefully, I will receive a reply within two days. In the mid afternoon, I started reading swift language and I found it tough because I didn't study for the past two days. So, as result I lost interest and started reading the murder on the orient express book. I found it quite difficult reading this book and I am looking forward to it. I did my leg exercise and went to the bath. When I came back, my brother bought the chicken because of the festival which is coming in two days. Once the sri rama navami festival comes, we cannot eat non-veg for at least ten days. So , today is the day we had free time and bought the chicken. My brother and I prepared the grilled chicken and it was quite perfect apart from extra salt. My sister prepared butter naan as well as butter chicken. We had a wonderful dinner and I am quite excited for tomorrow to study...