

I have to start my diary from yesterday night where I left off writing diary and proceeded to other work such as brushing, watching youtube. when I switched off the writing, I started watching videos on book recommendations. Meanwhile, my mother came into the bedroom and told me it was raining heavier than evening. I went outside and didn't do my brush because we don't have either power and slept with my grandmother. I woke up and did my usual routine and read Elon musk's book. In the morning, I received two messages from Bluedart regarding the delivery. The two deliveries are Macbook to me and my passport to the Bengaluru VFS office. The former one is about going to receive the product and when I saw that I am really excited about that. The second one is about the delivery cancellation because the office was closed due to iftar. In the afternoon, I studied the ugly love book. While reading this, I received a call from the blue dart delivery person and I got the delivery within a quarter. I unboxed my Macbook pro and saw the premium design of a magnificent laptop. My initial thoughts are the size. It was smaller and I felt very bad about that. From the evening to the midnight, I installed software and learnt how to work with the laptop.
