

I am hearing the sound of my ringtone when I am sleeping. I woke up and attended the call to know who it is. I spoke with the person and he told me that he is from Tim Horton's coffee shop and he saw my resume for the role of crew member which I applied yesterday. We both scheduled an interview. He sent me the address of the location. After that, I slept again and again I woke up with another call. This time it's from cibc bank. They said I need to come to the bank to pick up the credit card. I said I will come in the afternoon and disconnected the call. This time I woke up and watched TV while brushing, and eating. I scheduled a phone call with FIDO customer service regarding the bill. I received a call back at the exact time 12 pm and they told me it is two months bill. I went to the bank after speaking with fido customer service. I did all the things in the cibc bank getting a void cheque, and credit card, and removing fraud from my account. I came back home, cooked rice, cleaned the bathroom, ate lunch, and took a powerful nap. I woke up at 7 pm and started reading the book which I scheduled for today. I did some exercises regarding the concept of the array in swift language. Meanwhile, I cooked potato fry and ate dinner. Right now, I am thinking of studying the newspaper because I dont have to read the newspaper tomorrow. I will gain so much time to use it for the assignment as well as for my self-preparation.