

Today, I am thinking of writing my diary after my breakfast because everyday I am writing the same boring stuff that I have been doing such as cleaning, brushing, and reading. After my breakfast, I did so many things that I am going to describe here now. Firstly, I cleaned my AC in and out. Secondly, I took the single bedroom in my house and arranged it for my studies like taking a table near my tv and putting a blanket on my table and for my tv I arranged a small table to place stabilisers, wifi boxes. I didn't study in the morning and I decided to not study for today.

I switched on my AC and I had my lunch while feeling the AC after one year. I immersed myself and enjoyed every bit of time in my hall. And after some time, I had a chat with an apple specialist regarding my macbook pro purchase through student discount and I learnt something through that which I am going to do in the next upcoming days.. I had a 30 minutes walk in the evening and watered my spinach plants. I started reading the da vinci code book after my bath with cold water. Today is the day that I am eagerly waiting for because it is the day that IPL is starting. When I completed my book, I suddenly went and watched IPL.

I must tell you about this game that the csk vs kkr is playing. Kkr won the toss and elected to bowl first and csk didn't start as per they wanted. At once, they were five wickets down in the first ten overs. I am not going to write who won the match but today I witnessed the best of dhoni after two years. He scored fifty and it was beautiful to see him and hitting the ball in the correct spots