

I woke up, attended the class, and did the assignment even though I didn't understand the concept at all. My brother made upma and I ate with him while chatting with my groupmates on WhatsApp. In the afternoon, I went along with my brother to the pet store to replace the fish which he bought from them a few days ago. we went over there on a walk and came back home after replacing them, ate lunch, took a nap, and went outside along with my brother and Arvind to buy the groceries. We went some time outside shopping, walking, and having conversations with them. I came home, soaked the fish, my brother and Arvind went for a haircut, had a bath, and helped others to prepare dinner. I was having a guilt feeling until this time about my studies as well as my behaviour. Mahesh's friend came to my house because he was going to India and he need a place to stay for 2 days. He was like one person who showed me Canada. literally, I have different feelings about the job perspective and he showed some other way and clarified all the doubts. In the end, I wanted him as my roommate because of his knowledge and experience. I think I spoke to him for 2 hours and he motivated me that I can do anything. I am going to do something from tomorrow. Based on a strict schedule and I have to do it.
