

I woke up at noon when Aravind's friend came to my house and started shouting at him. I spent my time browsing my mobile, watching TV, cooking my lunch, trying to take a nap, and speaking to my friends in the afternoon as well as in the evening. At 7 pm, I started getting ready for my shift, and within one hour, I bathed, ate my dinner, and got ready. I took the bus and reached the site 20 minutes early. When I was about to enter the area, I found the pillar security, and I had a sense that he was the guard whom I saw in the offsite training, and he also happened to be a Telugu-speaking guy. my instinct came true, and he is that person. He briefed me about the site, leaving at 10:45 pm. then, I read the newspaper and emailed it to allied security. Right now, I am writing this one. Once I am done with this, I will watch my mobile and will patrol.
