

I didn't have much to write or describe about my morning routine because everyday I was doing that and I am bored of writing the same words. Though, I am not going into detail, I will describe briefly. The things that I did were bathroom chores, reading the newspaper and the discovery of India, and walking. In the afternoon, I went to the bank to pay the dwakra money but it turned out to be a holiday for the banks because of ambedkar jayanti. I returned home and participated in a discussion with my parents regarding the upcoming procession of sri rama navami. In the initial steps, everybody was agreeing and later at 8pm, my brother told me that the procession was cancelled. I studied swift and android languages and did my leg exercises. I went to the bath after half past five and shaved my armpits. When I came after the bath, my mom asked me to do the puja ceremony. At around 10 past 6, I went outside to say my final goodbye to krishna because he was going to kuwait. When I went outside, he was already sitting in the car and was good to go. During this crisis, I said goodbye to him and spent time reading the android tutorial. I had my dinner after half past eight and took my laptop and came to the hall to write my diary. Suddenly, my mother came and said to me that Sivaiah and Lakshmaiah were fighting outside. It was a small matter and I came to my house to write the diary. After this, I have to go and brush my teeth and watch the big bang theory series. I am really excited for this series because it is giving me the vibes of the friends series.
