

There isn't much to write today. Anyhow , I decided to write so I'm writing this one .....

I woke up late today compared to the previous days. After that, I checked my mail to see whether I got any email from my institute. So far, I haven't received anything. I did my daily rituals and proceeded to the newspaper and I completed reading the news fastly. I had dosa for my breakfast.. I took some time before I got into the book reading. I actually started reading Nelson Mandela's autobiography book but i didn't like it due to various reasons. The reasons are that I expected this book to be fast forward and I failed in that because the book is too slow. It's like watching a failed web series with high expectations.. After some time, I started reading discovery of india by Jawaharlal nehru..

I had lunch and I watched some political documentaries in the mid afternoon. In the evening, I had a 30 mins walk and I had a fresh bath.. I was thinking about youtube videos but i didn't find any good informative vlogs. So I had to spend tonight watching the Vincenzo web series today.. Right now, I have to brush and clean my face...